"Spinning binary Hamiltonian from scattering amplitudes."

Andres Luna Godoy (UCLA)

Abstract: In this talk, I will review a framework to calculate Hamiltonians for binaries of black holes using modern scattering amplitudes methods and matching to an effective field theory. Then, I will present an extension of this framework to describe the dynamics of a binary of spinning bodies, for which it will be useful to study new double-copy relations for general spin.