This one-hour presentation has been designed to offer an in-depth dialogue around the systems of power and privilege and how they impact our everyday lives, personally, professionally, and academically. This session offers discussion time to define privilege and how those systems serve as predicates for how we interpret normalcy and establish a standard of justification. Through the exploration of power and privilege, participants will gain a better understanding of how to promote inclusivity and social justice among people of all identities.